

Countryside and Rights of Way (CROW) Act 2000

REVIEW OF STATUTORY DIRECTION(S)

SUMMARY FOR PUBLIC CONSULTATION

Prepared by Natural England

1. INFORMATION ABOUT THE PUBLIC CONSULTATION

Access Authority: Hampshire

Relevant Authority: Natural England

Local Access Forum: Hampshire Countryside Access Forum

Natural England is about to review the following direction:

Land Parcel Name:	Open Access or England Coast Path	Direction Ref.	Dates of restriction/ exclusion on existing direction:	Reason for restricting/ excluding access
Hook Links	Open Access	2004090138	04/11/2019 – 15/12/2025	CROW section 26 No Public Access – Sensitive Wildlife

This is in line with the relevant authority's statutory duties (see Annex 1).

Your views on the current direction are sought to assist Natural England in deciding whether the restriction is still necessary for the original purpose, and if so, whether the extent and nature are still appropriate for the original purpose.

The relevant authority may decide to revoke the direction or that no change to the extent and/ or nature except the end date is necessary. In which case a Consultation Outcome Report will be published on the Consultation Pages of the Government's website¹.

If the relevant authority decides to vary the extent or nature of the restriction a further round of public consultation may be necessary (see Annex 1) in which case a second Consultation Summary Report will be published.

2. SUMMARY OF EXISTING DIRECTION

Natural England made this long-term direction on 04/11/2019.

The short summary below gives the background to the direction. This should be read in conjunction with the other documents available as part of this consultation. Further information is available from Rob Morris – email restriction.representations@naturalengland.org.uk or telephone 02080260915.

The parcel is a local nature reserve and valued for its wading and wintering bird species, many of which are nationally rare and of conservation concern. This 22-hectare mixed habitat site is within the Lee on the Solent to Itchen SSSI & also is within the larger Solent RAMSAR / SPA and SAC designations. Its features include rare, vegetated shingle and many rare species of breeding Avocets and overwintering birds, notably Brent Geese, black tailed godwit and ringed plover.

From the Natural England case officer's previous discussions with the site manager, it is apparent that the restriction seems to be generally adhered to. There is minimal public pressure for greater access to the site; it can all be clearly seen from existing rights of way and easy views of the birds enjoyed whilst undisturbed. The previous concern as to dog access has been resolved by a deeper fence adjoining the dyke which largely surrounds the site, and wider public engagement. Since the last review the Calshot to Gosport stretch of the King Charles III England Coast Path has opened. The route runs adjacent to the site on the foreshore.

It has been part of a Local Nature Reserve for many years and access has always been limited. The site is managed by Hampshire CC.

Using and sharing your consultation responses

In line with Natural England’s Personal Information Charter, any comments you make, and any information you send in support of them, will help us to determine the application and/ or determine if the restriction/ exclusion is still necessary in relation to the review or reassessment of a current direction.

We may wish to pass such comments or information to others in connection with our duties and powers under the open access legislation. This may mean for example passing information, including your name and contact details, to the Secretary of State or their appointees, the Planning Inspectorate or to the relevant access authority(s).

We will summarise all responses and place this summary on the Government’s consultation website. This summary will include a list of names of organisations that responded but not the names, addresses or other contact details of individual respondents.

There may also be circumstances in which we will be required to disclose your response to third parties, either as part of the statutory process for consideration of representations and objections about our decision, or in order to comply with our wider obligations under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 and the Environmental Information Regulations 2004.

If you do not want your response - including your name, contact details and any other personal information – to be publicly available, please explain clearly why you regard the information you have provided as confidential. However, we cannot give an assurance that confidentiality can be maintained in all

Annex 1

In accordance with statutory guidance, the relevant authority has a duty to:

- review directions of a long-term character no later than their fifth anniversary; and
- revoke or vary directions where necessary.

Under CROW section 27(3) the relevant authority must review, at least every five years, any direction it has given that restricts access indefinitely; for part of every year; for part of each of six or more consecutive calendar years; or for a specified period of more than five years.

During the review the relevant authority must, having regard to the interest of the public in having access to the land, consider whether the restriction is still necessary for its original purpose, and if so, whether the extent and nature of the restriction is still appropriate for the original purpose.

Before reviewing a long-term direction, the relevant authority must consult:

- the local access forum;
- the applicant or his successor in title, where reasonably practicable – for directions under section 24 or 25 made on application; or
- the relevant advisory body – for a direction made under section 26.

The authority must also publish a notice on a website (and send a copy to statutory consultees) that must explain that the authority proposes to review the direction in question; where documents relating to the review may be inspected and copies obtained; and that representations in writing with regard to the review may be made by any person to the authority by a date specified in the notice.

Once consultation is complete the relevant authority should have regard to any representations it receives before making a decision.

If following the consultation, the Relevant Authority decides to:

- leave the original direction unchanged, the relevant authority should record the date that the decision was made and should schedule a subsequent review where necessary.

If following the consultation, the Relevant Authority decides to:

- vary the extent or nature of a restriction, the relevant authority will issue a new direction under the same section and direction number that was used to give the original direction. If the new direction is long-term, it must be reviewed within five years of the date it is given;
- revoke a direction, we will record the date that the decision was made.

Before varying or revoking a direction the relevant authority must: consult the original applicant or his successor in title, where reasonably practicable – for directions given under section 24 or 25 on an application; or consult the relevant advisory body – for directions given under section 26. In either case, follow the consultation procedures set out in the Relevant Authority Guidance but only if it proposes to give a new direction that would restrict access indefinitely or for more than six months continuously.
